BUILD YOUR NEW CHURCH ON VERSATILITY AND UNSHAKABLE STOCKS ECONOMY.

Catholic Church of the Assumption, Southampton

These days a church has to be a great deal more than a church.

It has to be a social centre too.

Even a sports hall.

But who do you go to — a conventional builder, or Stocks?

Stocks will build you a church cheaper than any conventional builder, and can complete the job in half the time.

And the modular Stocks system is infinitely variable.

Founded on economy, versatility and permanence your new church building will be individually designed — modern or traditional style.

What's more the exclusive Stocks package deal takes all the work and worry off your hands — right through from design to decoration.

Remember Stocks — the unshakable one.

Send now for colour brochure featuring actual case histories and details of how Stocks can bring you considerable savings on your new church building.

There's only one mystery about our cheque book . . . . why you're not using it

Let's do some straight talking about owning a Bank of Scotland cheque book. It's not as mysterious as you might imagine.

For one thing, it's convenient. No more trudging about town to pay all your bills—simply make out the cheques and post them.

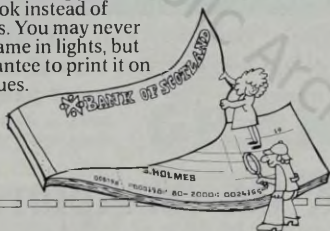

For another thing, it's safe. You don't have to carry large amounts of cash around with you—just your cheque book.

Come to think of it, it might even be more impressive flashing your cheque book instead of your wages. You may never get your name in lights, but we'll guarantee to print it on your cheques.

These days, the biggest mystery is detecting exactly where all your money goes. We don't issue bloodhounds, but we do give you a regular statement showing exactly where you stand.

On top of all this, your cheque book opens the door to a host of other helpful services.

A current account with us makes life so much simpler. Just fill in the coupon, or call in at your nearest branch, and we'll show you how.

mystery out of money

THE CHURCH IN SCOTLAND

THE HIERARCHY OF SCOTLAND

I

FROM THE EXTINCTION OF THE HIERARCHY IN 1603 TILL ITS RESTORATION IN 1878

The ancient hierarchy ended with James Betoun, archbishop of Glasgow, who died at Paris on the 25th April, 1603, aged 79. After being subjected to the jurisdiction of the archpriests and first vicar apostolic of England till 1623, and afterwards to local prefects of the mission, the clergy were incorporated into a missionary body by decree of Propaganda, 1653.

PREFECTS APOSTOLIC

1. William Ballantine: born 1618 when his father, Thomas Ballantine (or Bannatyne), was minister at North Berwick; brought up as a Presbyterian in Douglas where his father was incumbent from June 1621; educated University of Edinburgh (did not graduate and had left before July 1637); received into Catholic Church, probably at Paris, date unknown; entered Scots College, Rome, to study for priesthood, 1641, and took the oath, 1st November: "factus ob infirmitatem citius sacerdos"; left the College, 15th March 1646; at Scots College, Paris; arrived in Scotland, 1648; appointed prefect, 13th October 1653; arrested at Rye, Sussex, England, September 1656, imprisoned until July 1658, released on personal order of the Protector, Oliver Cromwell, with a gift of £60 to take him to France; returned to Scotland, 18th May 1660; died at Elgin, 2nd September 1661; author of A preparation for death or, The practice of dying well (2nd edition, 1715).

2. Alexander Winster: born "in the diocese of Moray," c. 1625; entered Scots College, Rome, to study for priesthood, 27th May, 1651; ordained at Rome, 1657; appointed prefect, 12th June 1662; resigned July 1697; died at Banff, 14th January 1708. [During Alexander Winster's absence in France, 1668-1672, John Walker substituted as prefect but was not formally appointed as such by propaganda; St. Oliver Plunket, Archbishop of Armagh, 1669-1681, was appointed prefect apostolic of the Highlands and Islands, 17th September, 1669.]

THE VICARS APOSTOLIC OF SCOTLAND

*All consecrations of Scottish bishops for the next century were in private; but for some consecrations extraordinary measures were taken to conceal both the event and the news that it had taken place and these are indicated in the entries by the phrase "in secret" below) being one of them] seminary at Loch Morar, Inverness-shire, 1714; in hiding with rest of clergy during persecutions after failure of 1715 rising; re-opened Loch Morar seminary and transferred it to Scalán, Banffshire, 1716; succeeded as vicar apostolic, 23rd October 1718; translated on division of vicariate to Lowland District, 23rd July 1727.

3. John Wallace: born at Arbroath, c. 1658; brought up as an Episcopalian and may have been ordained in Episcopalian ministry; received into Catholic Church, c. 1686; in exile after Revolution with Jacobite court at St. Germain-en-Laye; retired to live at Scots College, Paris; was persuaded by Bishop James Gordon to return with him to Scotland, July 1706; ordained at Preshome, 14th April 1708; missionary at Arbroath; summoned to judiciary court at Perth, 1709, for apostasy but did not appear and was outlawed; consecrated titular bishop of Cyrrha and coadjutor vicar apostolic of Scotland by James Gordon, titular bishop of Nicopolis and vicar apostolic of Scotland, in secret at Edinburgh, 2nd October 1720; arrested Edinburgh, 1722, and again outlawed; died at Edinburgh, 11th July 1733.

II: 1727-1827

On 23rd July 1727, Scotland was divided into two vicariates, the Lowland and Highland Districts. Alexander John Grant [born at Enzie, Banffshire, c. 1693, elder brother of James Grant (see (5) below); educated Scots College, Rome; ordained at Rome, 23rd December 1719; superior at Scalán, 1720-1726] was nominated titular bishop of Sura and vicar apostolic, Highland District, 6th August 1727. He went to Rome for consecration but, for a number of reasons, this was delayed; returning from Italy to Scotland, he was last heard from at Genoa, ill and in great poverty. No further trace of him has been discovered. His death was reported to Rome but not, apparently, to Propaganda. A successor was not appointed until 20th January 1731 when Hugh Macdonald was nominated to the Highland District.

II

FROM THE RESTORATION OF THE HIERARCHY IN 1878
TO THE PRESENT DAY

The Apostolic Letter "Ex Supremo Apostolatus Apice" of Leo XIII, 4th March, 1878, divided Scotland into the Province of St. Andrews and Edinburgh (with four Suffragan Sees) and the Archdiocese of Glasgow, which was directly subject to the Holy See. By the Apostolic Constitution "Maxime Interest" of Pius XII, 25th May, 1947, and the Apostolic Constitution "Dominici Gregis" of the same date, the Archdiocese of Glasgow was erected into a Province and divided into the Metropolitan See of Glasgow with the Suffragan Sees of Motherwell and Paisley.

THE PROVINCE OF ST. ANDREWS AND EDINBURGH

The Province of St. Andrews and Edinburgh consists of the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh and the four Suffragan Sees of Aberdeen, Argyll and the Isles, Dunkeld, and Galloway.

ARCHDIOCESE OF ST. ANDREWS AND EDINBURGH *

Comprising the Metropolitan Cathedral City of Edinburgh; the entire Lothian and Borders Regions; in Fife Region, the districts of Dunfermline, Kirkcaldy, and North-East Fife south of the River Eden; in Central Region, Falkirk District and those parts of Stirling District situated in the geographical county of Stirlingshire; and, in Strathclyde Region, the Banton, Kilsyth and Queenzieburn areas of Cumbernauld District, and the Lennoxton, Milton of Campsie and Torrance areas of Strathkelvin District.

The See of St. Andrews was founded before 900; erected into a Metropolitan See by Bull of Sixtus IV, 17th August, 1472; and was vacant for 307 years, from the execution at Stirling of John Hamilton, eighth Archbishop, on 7th April, 1571, till the restoration of the Hierarchy in 1878.

* The diocesan territories shown in this section have been redescribed to take account of the coming into operation of the Local Government (Scotland) Act, 1973. This Act, of course, in no way affects the diocesan boundaries, which consequently remain unaltered. The transfer of an area east of Harthill from the West Lothian District of Lothian Region to the Motherwell District of Strathclyde Region is currently under consideration. If the Local Government Boundary Commission for Scotland so recommends, and the Secretary of State approves the recommendation, it is anticipated that the transfer will become effective on 1st April, 1976. Even so, the area in question will remain part of the Archdiocese of St. Andrews and Edinburgh.

After a temporary appointment at St. Andrew's, Greenock, Father Carlin returned to Rome for the completion of his studies. This being done, he was appointed temporarily to St. John's, Barrhead, and is now assistant at St. Conval's, Linwood.

OBITUARIES — 1975

Reverend James Payne — 3rd December, 1974

The Reverend James Payne who had retired from the parish of West Calder in 1973 after having served the people there from 1947, died at St. Anne's, Musselburgh. In his retirement, short as it was, he was very happy indeed and accepted in a most edifying way, the cross of bad health that had enforced him to retire from the active scene.

He was born on July the 18th, 1904, in Bowhill, Fife. In 1918 he went to Blairs and from there continued his studies at Coutances where he had gone in 1925. He was ordained in St. Mary's, Cathedral, Edinburgh on the 14th of June, 1930 by Archbishop Andrew Joseph McDonald. His first appointment was as curate at St. Patrick's, Edinburgh where he remained until his appointment as curate to St. Columba's in 1934. His first appointment as parish priest was to Our Lady of the Waves, Dunbar in 1938. Here he remained until he went to St. Mary's, West Calder.

His Requiem Mass was offered in St. Mary's Cathedral, Edinburgh and an indication of the high esteem in which he had been held by his former parishioners, was shown by the large number that had come from West Calder and from Dunbar. His apostolic work amongst them was gratefully remembered. In the unavoidable absence of His Eminence the Cardinal, Bishop James Monaghan presided at the Requiem Mass. He felt obliged to observe the wishes of the late Father Payne who had been very explicit that there was to be no panegyric preached at his requiem. His Lordship the Bishop, after a brief outline of Father Payne's life, asked for their prayers that a good and faithful priest might enjoy his reward in heaven.

The Right Reverend Monsignor Francis Provost Magauran, D.D. — 12th January, 1975

Francis Magauran was born in Newcastle-on-Tyne on April 5th, 1901. His family moved to Glasgow shortly afterwards and settled in Partick. Of the three members of this family who gave their lives to God and the welfare of the Church in the West of Scotland, only one survives, Father Bernard. Sister Mary Bernard of the Sisters of Notre Dame de Namur died in 1968.

Francis Magauran studied for the priesthood at St. Mary's College, Blairs, St. Peter's College, Bearsden and Scots College, Rome. He was ordained priest in St. John Lateran's, Rome, on March 7th, 1925. While in Rome he took his Doctorate in theology. Apart from a short period as vice-rector of the Scots College, Rome, he spent his priestly life in various parishes covered now by three dioceses—Glasgow, Motherwell and Paisley. He held curacy appointments at Our Lady and St. Margaret's, Kinning Park, Glasgow 1925-1926; Holy Cross, Croy 1926-1928; St. Bride's, Cambuslang 1928-1933; St. Mary's, Greenock 1933-1943. His first charge as parish priest was at St. Athanasius', Carluke in 1943. Four years later he was transferred to St. Ninian's, Gourrock, where he was in charge until 1951. St. John's, Port-Glasgow, was the next scene of his labours 1951-1958. On the death of Monsignor Frederick Provost Pirrie, he became parish priest of St. Mary's, Paisley in March 1958.

Monsignor Magauran held many responsible diocesan posts. He became Vicar General of Paisley diocese on the death of Monsignor John McIntyre in 1961. He was made Domestic Prelate with title of Monsignor by Pope John XXIII in 1962. When Bishop James Black died in 1968 he was elected Vicar Capitular of the diocese until the translation of Bishop Stephen McGill to Paisley from Argyll and the Isles. In 1972 he became Provost of Paisley Cathedral Chapter.

Bishop McGill described Monsignor Magauran as a deeply spiritual man, a great scholar and one who had a very high estimate of the priesthood. In following the "Little Way" of St. Therese his life reflected her humility and self-effacement.

The bare facts about Monsignor Magauran's life tell us little about the man or the priest. It would be impossible to do him justice in print. He was such a big man in every way. This tribute is not meant to be a eulogy; it is a simple gesture of appreciation of one who was privileged to know him well.

His library gave an indication of his spiritual and intellectual tastes. It abounded in books on theology and the spiritual life—mainly in Italian and French. These books were not there to decorate the shelves. They were read and digested. Monsignor had a phenomenal memory which did not seem to be impaired by age. He carried his knowledge so lightly that lesser mortals did not suspect its extent. He was a genuinely humble man, who never sought popularity.

Those who knew Monsignor Magauran remember his wit and sense of humour. He was an excellent raconteur. His light touch could range over a wide variety of subjects, bringing events and people of the past to life or poking fun at some venerable institution. His hospitality to fellow priests was well known throughout the diocese. The deanery conference was a case in point. He always maintained that no matter how divergent the opinions expressed at the conference, any hard feelings were softened by a good dinner! How right he was. Those who lived under the same roof and worked with him will always remember his kindness and thoughtfulness for everyone but himself. They will remember also his concern for his domestic staff. Many people in the parishes in which he served have already remarked that they no longer receive that card which arrived without fail on a birthday, wedding anniversary or date of reception into the Church.

Monsignor Magauran believed in putting first things first in his life. He was a priest who was close to God. Four hours of every day were spent in the church in personal prayer with the Lord. There were no half measures in this man's life.

His zeal for the beauty of God's house was evident in the extensive renovations that he carried out in St. John's, Port-Glasgow, and in St. Mary's, Paisley. He was the first to introduce the planned giving scheme of church offerings in Paisley diocese. Although Monsignor Magauran accepted the office of Vicar-General in the diocese of Paisley, he did so not from personal preference but from obedience. His first pastoral interest was in the people of his parish. His devotion to the hard and constant slog of parish visitation, even in his latter years, put many of us to shame. He was a priest of the parish, the school and the home. He was always studying ways and means of perfecting himself for the sake of his people, a fact which Bishop McGill referred to at his funeral Mass.

The image of the priesthood is damaged by those who are quick to compromise, those who are more conscious of their individual rights than the duty of sacrifice.

*"The high soul seeks the high road,
The low soul gropes for the low;
And in between are the misty flats
Where souls drift to and fro."*

Monsignor Magauran's life was a shining light. One did not look for mediocrity in him. He heard Confessions on the night before he died, as was his custom every Saturday. He was desperately ill but kept this to himself lest he be a burden to others. He would have celebrated his golden jubilee in the priesthood later in the year. He has celebrated that great event in his real home. He died unexpectedly at the Royal Alexandra Infirmity, Paisley, on Sunday, 12th January, 1975. He was buried in St. Conval's Cemetery, Barrhead. May the Lord grant him eternal life.

Reverend Thomas Gerard Sheehan — 16th January, 1975

Father Thomas Gerard Sheehan died suddenly while on holiday with his family on 16th January, 1975. His death was a shock to his parents, family, parishioners and countless friends. He was forty-six years of age.

Father Sheehan was born in Moulagow, Drinagh, Co. Cork on 12th January, 1929, of parents whose families for generations gave many sons and daughters to the priesthood and religious life. He was born into a parish that can boast of giving more than its share of its sons and daughters to the service of God, many of whom have answered their vocation to work in Scotland.

Father Tom's education began at the local national school and later at St. Finbarr's College, Farranferris. It was no surprise to his family and friends when, on the completion of his secondary education, he decided to study for the priesthood. He entered St. Kieran's College, Kilkenny, in September 1947, and was ordained priest in St. Mary's Cathedral, Kilkenny, on 7th June, 1953.

Father Tom had long since decided to work for the Lord in Scotland and in July 1953, took up his first appointment in St. Andrew's, Airdrie. Eager to learn and zealous for the salvation of souls and because of his regular visitation of the homes of his people he soon came to know his flock and, in turn, became a well-known and loved figure in Whinhall. His sincerity and ready wit endeared him to all. His outstanding talent was surely his ability to communicate with the young and, no doubt, there are many in Airdrie today who remember with gratitude the young priest who encouraged and guided them through their adolescent years.

It was while Father Sheehan was at St. Andrew's that the Irish Sisters of Charity opened a hospice of the dying at Assumption House. From the day the Sisters arrived in the parish they found a helper and friend in Father Sheehan. As their chaplain he was constantly in attendance, whether for morning Mass, Benediction, or administering the Sacraments to the patients. His daily visits to the patients were the highlight of their day. He brought to every bed a cheery word, a smile, a word of consolation and a lot of happiness. There can be no doubt that when his soul left this vale of tears there were many of his friends from Assumption House waiting to welcome him to the heavenly mansions.

In 1967 Father Sheehan was transferred to St. Patrick's, Shieldmuir, a parish much older than St. Andrew's and with long-standing traditions. He showed the same zeal and dedication in his work for the parishioners of Shieldmuir as he had done for fourteen years in Airdrie.

Father Sheehan served as assistant to four parish priests: the late Father Patrick McHugh and Father George Mullen in Airdrie and Canon Anthony Kilcoyne and the late Father Richard Lillis in Shieldmuir. All of them found a devoted friend in Father Sheehan and an assistant who gave unstintingly of his time and energy.

In 1972 Bishop Thomson appointed Father Sheehan parish priest of Our Lady and St. John's, Blackwood. His parishioners were immediately aware that their Shepherd of Souls was a man who lived his vocation with complete dedication. Within a short space of time he had visited every home in that widespread parish. The sick and the children were the first to receive his attention. His talent for organizing soon had the parish humming with activity. Any spare time he had was devoted to one or other of his hobbies, for he would never allow himself to indulge in idleness. His hobbies ranged from photography and shooting to amateur radio. In the pursuit of these hobbies he made many new friends from within and outwith the Church, friends who miss him today as much as his long established ones.

We shall never know when Father Sheehan first took ill; he complained so seldom that it is difficult in retrospect to say whether he knew that he was ill. Certainly his cheery disposition, his zest for life and unfailing devotion to duty gave no hint to his friends of any serious illness.

His death came suddenly while he was visiting his family in January. It is a consolation to his parents and his sister that he died at home and is buried in the grounds of the church where he was baptized.

Bishop Thomson concelebrated the funeral Mass with twenty of his fellow-priests, many of whom travelled from Motherwell diocese and from all over Ireland for the funeral. Father Tom Sheehan died as he had lived: a dedicated priest, faithful to the end to his Divine Master.

GO NDEANAIDH DIA TROCRAIRE AR A ANAM.

Reverend James Webb — 27th February, 1975

Father James Webb, priest of the diocese of Argyll and the Isles, was not very well known among the priests of Scotland. That is a pity, for he was a good and delightful character, very well known, respected and loved in the area of Kintyre and Islay, where there were no other priests. He was born near Bristol on 13th May, 1883, and died in Campbeltown on 27th February, 1975, in the 92nd year of his age and the 62nd of his priesthood.

When he left school he went to work for the Great Western Railway Company, and he was in his early twenties when he decided to offer himself for the priesthood. He joined the Congregation of Our Holy Redeemer, and was professed as a Redemptorist in 1908, with vows of obedience and poverty. This was important, for although he was later to be dispensed from these vows on becoming a secular priest, he was to observe them in spirit for the rest of his life.

Ordained priest on 21st September, 1913, he spent fourteen years on the staff of various seminaries—including some years at Kinnoull in Perth. He taught the classics, and loved them. As an old man, his recreational reading was often Cicero or Horace, Livy or Virgil. He taught philosophy and Canon Law, and one who remembers him, being a student at that time, tells how he had the reputation among students of knowing the whole Code of Canon Law by heart. Be that as it may, it is true that he always observed the most minuscule rules of Canon Law and rubrics. Not that he suffered from scruples—far from it. He would not suggest that anyone else should do the same. It was that vow of obedience.

In 1927, the Diocese of Argyll and the Isles was short of priests, and Father Webb was asked to serve temporarily as curate in Dunoon. He loved Dunoon, and discovered there that by temperament he was more suited to the work of a priest in a parish, getting to know people and ministering to them personally, rather than to the traditional work of the Redemptorist, preaching repentance to strangers. Then he was asked to go temporarily to the island of Eriskay. He was now 45 years of age, an Englishman from a city background, a scholar with a vow of poverty. And in Eriskay he experienced real poverty for the first time. And he loved it. His notebook gives some evidence of the conditions. He would count the pennies, half-pennies and farthings in the collection plate each Sunday, take careful note of the total—a few shillings—and give them to the housekeeper to do with them what she could. Of course he had a good congregation who gave him every encouragement; and there were many things he did not have to pay for, such as fuel and milk and eggs and fish—especially fish.

His next temporary appointment was to Rothesay, and then in 1929 he was given his first charge as a priest of the diocese, in the old parish of St. Brendan's, Craigston, Isle of Barra. He now learned something of the work of crofting, and also started seriously to study Gaelic.

In 1931 he was appointed to a parish he had never heard of, but that he was to get to know so well during the next 44 years. Campbeltown was then comparatively prosperous. The whisky industry was on the decline, but there was a good fishing fleet, a boat-yard, a coal-mine, a few miles of railway, and a busy steamer service to the Clyde coast. The population, greater than it is today, was crowded into a much smaller area. Hence the name by which it is affectionately known—the "Wee Toon." The parish of St. Kieran's is one of the very old parishes in Scotland. The town is geographically and historically isolated from the rest of Scotland, and if Father Webb was not well known among the other priests of Scotland it is because for nearly half a century he shared that isolation.

But in Kintyre and Islay, and even in the Glens of Antrim he was well known. During the years he became the father of the community. He considered himself pastor to everyone, with a particular concern for the sick and the poor. His congregation were generous, but there was that vow of poverty. He put their money in the bank and was content to live frugally. He allowed himself one annual luxury—a visit to Italy, and he was over eighty years of age when he last drove his car to Italy—alone. After that he had to go by plane.

During the war years Campbeltown was an important base for the Navy, Army and Air Force, and a harbour for evacuees. He was auxiliary chaplain to them all. He visited Islay for a week at a time at least twice in the year. There were very few Catholics there, but there were people, and he was their pastor.

He made a particular study of the history, archaeology and folklore of the whole district, and was closely associated with the Glens of Antrim Historical Society which he addressed when it was founded in 1965. He knew more about the records of the kirk sessions, the presbyteries, and the Synod of Argyll, as well as the Campbeltown Town Council, than anyone in the district—with one possible exception, and it was a day of festivity in Campbeltown when Father Webb and that one possible exception, his old friend Mr. Duncan Colville, were jointly honoured as freemen of the Royal Burgh, in recognition of their services to the community.

When he reached the age of 70, his health was not very good and he thought it proper to tender his resignation as parish priest, to make way—as he put it—for a more active man. He did this every year for nine years, before the bishop eventually accepted it. He retired—officially—in 1962, and remained in Campbeltown. For many years he was still active in the visitation of the hospitals—where he was always welcome—and of the sick and poor people in the town. The obedience that he had vowed as a Redemptorist he now gave without ostentation to his successor, the parish priest. To give but one example, if the parish priest asked the congregation to come for a singing practice to learn new hymns, then whoever else might be absent, the old man would be there. He said Mass daily as long as he could stand: he welcomed the new rubrics, but they gave him some difficulty, naturally. So he would come to the church that much earlier, to make sure he knew exactly what to do.

As old age crept up on him he suffered gradual blindness and the indignity during his last few months of loss of memory. Occasionally he would greet a visitor with a few lines from Horace or Virgil, and one would wonder just how bad his memory really was: his quotations were always so appropriate. He spent these last years in the care of the Misses McGrory, former parishioners, and they cared for him to the end. He could have had the comfort of the most expensive of nursing homes, but he would not have wished for that. He died in a ward in the local Calton Hospital. There was that vow of poverty.

St. Alphonsus, pray for him. May he rest in peace.

The Very Reverend Joseph Canon Kerr — 25th March, 1975

Joseph Kerr, one of a family of six, was born at Wexford on 12th May, 1909. He was brought up at Dungannon, Co. Tyrone, and received his early education there. After he had spent a short time with the Fathers of the Cross and Passion, he went to St. Peter's College, Wexford, in 1930. A year later, having been adopted for the Diocese of Galloway, he was sent to the Scots College, Rome, where he was ordained to the priesthood on 12th July, 1936. He completed his studies a year later, and took up his first appointment in the Diocese of Galloway at St. Columba's, Annan, in 1937.

Apart from about three months spent at St. Andrew's, Dumfries, at the outbreak of war in 1939, he was destined to spend the next eleven years in this wide area of some 800 square miles, attending to the spiritual needs of its scattered population of Catholics, about 500 in number. During the first two years he was assistant to Father Hugh Mimmagh and returned from Dumfries in December, 1939, as Priest-in-Charge, continuing in this office until the feast of St. Francis Xavier, 1948.

There were five churches in this area, Annan, Eastriggs, Gretna, Lockerbie and Moffat. Along with these there were camps of workers for varying lengths of time at Chapelcross, Eastriggs and Kirkpatrick Fleming. This entailed six Masses on a Sunday for two men. Father Kerr travelled 100 miles to say three Masses in the morning, and on the Sunday evening Devotions at Hetland House and Sunday School followed by Rosary, Sermon and Benediction at Gretna. It was a test of endurance for the whole man—body and spirit.

He would lean out of a hut window fully vested for Mass and watch the negroes from Honduras pass, white with cold in the chill Scottish morning, on their way to the dining hut to get something warm inside them. He would ask them if they were not coming to Mass, to be answered, "Very cold Father." It was not always clear if they spoke of the weather or of part of their anatomy. He was very disheartened, but full of sympathy for them, away as they were from their homes, their loved ones and their sunshine. Things eased at the end of the war, the area was still to be covered, but the navvies, lumberjacks and munitions workers had departed. Whatever the conditions, if at all possible, he did his rounds, returning each Sunday at 12.30 or 1 p.m. for his first meal of the day. In later years he was saddened by the attitudes of a later generation—so many questions and complaints.

He moved to Stranraer on 3rd December, 1948, and six years later on 26th November, 1954, he moved to Girvan, where he remained until he retired at the end of July, 1974. Both these parishes were quite large in extent, but there was only one church in each, and there were no long journeys to be covered on Sunday mornings. He redecorated the church at Stranraer, reconstructed the church at Girvan and did extensive alterations to the house.

The momentum for this physical effort of his early years was to be found in his spiritual life—he was a priest and any effort the occasion demanded he was ready and glad to make. To preach the Gospel and make the means of salvation available to his flock was to him the very reason for his existence as a priest. Like every human being he liked success and was encouraged by it, but when, as far as could be seen, he had failed, it was never a reason for not trying again. He would let things be for a time, perhaps for a long time, but the case was never closed.

He continued to study right through his priestly life. He would spend not just hours but days studying some question—he would sit surrounded by his books, scarcely conscious of what went on round about him. He was so familiar with the approved authors that when asked a question, he could, as if by magic, pick up the book and open it at the required page. He kept himself fully conversant with all the new thinking and was as much at home with the new authors as he had been with the old.

He served on the Diocesan Marriage Tribunal, the Finance Board, and the Diocesan and National Ecumenical Commissions. He was a quiet, shy man, known really well only to a few. He patiently and perseveringly fed his flock with the Word of God and the Bread of Life. He sought out the erring soul and helped him back to his religious duties with a minimum of fuss. He was a wonderful listener, and even when he appeared at times not to have heard, he had taken in every detail and would answer when ready. It might take minutes or it might take months.

As he lived, so he died. He called to see his sister on the evening of 25th March, and felt unwell while there; the doctor was sent for, he was taken to the local hospital, received the Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick and died within a very short time. May he rest in peace.

Reverend Thomas McGrory — 18th April, 1975

Thomas McGrory was born in Shettleston on 30th September, 1889, the second of three children who were called to devote their lives to God. His elder brother, James, died in 1940, at the early age of 52, as a priest of the Archdiocese of Glasgow, while his younger sister, Elizabeth, died in 1974, in her eighty-second year, as a Sacred Heart Sister in Craigmillar.

He entered Blairs in 1903, and after completing his secondary education was transferred to the seminary of St. Sulpice at Issy, outside Paris, in 1908. At the conclusion of his studies there, he was ordained priest by Cardinal Leo Adolphus Amette, Archbishop of Paris, on 28th June, 1913.

When he returned home, he was appointed assistant to the redoubtable Canon Hugh Kelly at St. Patrick's, Dumbarton, where he spent fifteen years of war and peace in the exercise of the pastoral ministry. These years of work had taken their toll, and although still in his thirties he had to withdraw from parish work for a time. The next four years he spent in various parts of the world recouping his forces. In 1932, he was able to return to parish work, and he was appointed assistant at St. Teresa's, Possilpark, where he spent the next fourteen years, including the difficult years of yet another war. One who knew him in these years describes him as a man popular, charitable and generous with the people, kind in dealing with his fellow-priests, though given to spells of taciturnity. His Mass was always reverent, but never agonizingly slow. His sermons may have been long, but they were always listened to with respectful attention.

At the end of this period in his life, Father Tom undertook a different kind of apostolate, being appointed in 1946 to be chaplain to the Christian Brothers' Approved School at Barskimming near Mauchline. After ten years, when this school was transferred to Tranent, he was appointed chaplain to another Christian Brothers' Approved School, St. Ninian's, Gartmore, where he spent nine years. Only those boys who came under his care can know how much they owe to him, under God, for the efforts he made to set their feet squarely on the true road through life.

In 1965, at the age of seventy-six, he retired to end his days in the care of the Sisters of Charity of St. Paul at St. Anne's Convent in Musselburgh. Even here, when he might reasonably have expected undisturbed leisure, he could not bring himself to cease all pastoral work. At need, he would supply in a parish. He gave Benediction to the sisters and his fellow-guests in the convent, and inspired them with his great love of the rosary. His devotion to the old and sick was constant. Until very near the end, he kept up a fortnightly visit to Glasgow and Dumbarton to see his sick friends. At Musselburgh, he was fond of sitting with other old men on a bench. And they were fond of him and miss him. In these days, he was a man of happy laughter and full of jokes. He was ever ready to help the sisters, even relieving them during the night watches at many a death-bed, assisting many on their way to eternity as only a dedicated priest can.

Father Tom's health remained good, despite his age, until the upset of his sister's death, but he would not be made a fuss of. His final illness came on Tuesday, 15th April, and he sank rapidly until Friday, 18th April, when he died in the eighty-sixth year of his age and the sixty-second of his priesthood. After his death, Bishop Monaghan, auxiliary in St. Andrews and Edinburgh, was the principal celebrant at one Mass, while Archbishop Winning of Glasgow was the principal celebrant of the funeral Mass. His Eminence Cardinal Gray presided at the interment in Mount Vernon Cemetery, Edinburgh. May he rest in peace.

Reverend John O'Riordan — 25th April, 1975

The life of Father O'Riordan began about the turn of the century, on 10th January, 1903, in a good Irish home. His early education was in an Irish national school from which he went to Mount Melleray Cistercian College, a well-known nursery of vocations to the priesthood. Here he finished his secondary education and duly proceeded to St. Kieran's College, Kilkenny, for his ecclesiastical training for the priesthood.

St. Kieran's was the first college established in Ireland after the Penal Days, hence the well-known inscription Hiems transiit—“Winter is past.” The College of St. Kieran has since 1782 sent priests to every country from China to Peru. It was here that Father O’Riordan was ordained priest on 9th June, 1929, and soon after came to St. Charles’, Paisley, to begin a dedicated life of zeal and piety in the priesthood, that was to last for forty-five years.

On 7th March, 1975, Father O’Riordan retired as parish priest of St. Patrick’s, Old Kilpatrick. The occasion was memorable for the large and representative gathering wishing him “Bon Voyage.” This occasion was a mixture of joy and regret. Joy, because Father O’Riordan could now rest from his arduous labours and return to his native country, in his beloved County Cork, under the devoted care of the nuns of St. Paul’s, Bushmount, Clonakilty. Yet the feeling of regret was uppermost and genuinely felt by all members of the community, and not confined to his own flock. Indeed, all of every denomination who spoke at the function, emphasised the grief felt at his departure. For well-nigh twenty-five years, Father O’Riordan was a familiar figure in the beautiful surroundings of Old Kilpatrick. The regret at his departure extended far beyond Old Kilpatrick, for he was known and loved from Paisley to Greenock, and from Lambhill to Cardonald, where God alone knows the immense benefit to souls, worked for by this zealous, unassuming and unobtrusive priest.

He was appointed parish priest of St. Barnabas’, Shettleston, in 1951, and soon after to St. Patrick’s, Old Kilpatrick, where he spent more time than in all other parishes, and where perhaps he did his best work. He knew not only the members of his own flock, but all the members of the community of the Old Kilpatrick district, and they all knew him, and how he stressed points of agreement without reference to differences. He was not a man of moods, but always the same unperturbed, approachable person, who shunned the limelight, and was concerned only with helping all who crossed his path.

Father O’Riordan carried out his priestly duty with meticulous care to the end. Finally, after forty-five years of faithful service to the Church in Scotland, he returned home, to die only one month after his retirement.

His mortal remains lie in the churchyard of his native parish of Ballyvourney, known as the chief city of Gaelic speakers. It is a place of peace, quiet and calm, as befits the last resting-place of one who in this life was noted for his peaceful, quiet and calm demeanour.

Peace to his soul — may God give him eternal rest.

The Very Reverend Thomas Canon McCann — 14th May, 1975

Canon Thomas McCann, parish priest of St. Anthony's, Polmont, was born in Denny on 12th August, 1898, and died at Polmont, on 14th May, 1975, in the 77th year of his age and the 51st of his priesthood. His Eminence Cardinal Gordon Gray, Archbishop of St. Andrews and Edinburgh preached the following panegyric at the funeral Mass in St. Alexander's Church, Denny, on 16th May, 1975.

"You will be sorrowful: but your sorrow will be turned to joy."
JOHN 10, 16.

Today might have been so different. Instead of a sad occasion it might have been an occasion of joy. Instead of purple vestments, white. Instead of flowers on the coffin, flowers adorning the altar. The altar of sacrifice, like the many altars on which throughout the fifty years of his priesthood, Thomas Canon McCann daily offered the sacrifice of the Mass.

Yes, today we might have been assisting at a Mass of Thanksgiving to mark his Golden Jubilee, a great and signal anniversary that fell just six days ago on May the 10th. Had it been so, we should have been:—

Offering our prayers of gratitude for the blessings of his long and faithful priesthood—

Offering our congratulations and gifts to mark the great occasion—

Recalling the events of his long life that passed the three score years and ten.

Yet—although death brings sorrow, death does not bring gloom. Death is the end for which man is born. Death is the fulfilment of God's promise of eternal life. Death is the gateway to the Garden of the first Easter day. That is the theme of this, our farewell Mass—the certain hope that he who died with Christ, will rise again with him to enjoy his presence in eternity—where every tear shall be wiped away.

"Unless the grain of wheat falls into the earth and dies, it remains alone: but if it dies it bears much fruit."

So said Our Blessed Lord—of man. Truly—in the end is my beginning.

Indeed, this is the occasion of a Requiem, a farewell Mass. But an occasion—as his Golden Jubilee would have been—for offering our prayers of gratitude for the blessings of the Canon's long and faithful priesthood.

A priesthood that began when on May 10th, 1925 in the Chapel of the Lateran Seminary in Rome, the youthful Thomas McCann, concelebrated his ordination Mass. A Mass that was but the first in the thousands he offered as curate in Broxburn, and as parish priest both in Burntisland and, for close on forty years, in St. Anthony's, Polmont. A priesthood that brought the comfort and strength of the Sacraments to thousands of men, women and children from the baptismal font of new life of grace to the deathbed of the approaching life of eternity.

Had this been the Golden Jubilee Mass, it would have been an occasion for offering our congratulations and our gifts.

But is it not so today? Do we not in a sense, congratulate the Canon that—in the words of St. Paul—"he has fought the good fight, finished the race, kept the faith." And—remind ourselves that for him "is surely laid up the crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous judge will award to all who have loved his coming?"

We offer our congratulations—and our gifts of Masses, prayers, rosaries, communions—spiritual gifts more pleasing to him now, than the material anniversary gifts he would surely have received—had he lived on.

Had it been otherwise—had this been his Jubilee Mass, we would have recalled the events of his long life—his birth here in Denny on August 12th, 1898, his boyhood days influenced by that well-remembered parish priest of Denny—Canon Patrick Shivers, whom Canon McCann in many ways resembled—quiet, unobtrusive, shy of publicity: content to care for a little flock, within the confines of the parish boundaries. And—burdened for many years with indifferent health. We would have recalled his days at Blairs, troubled anxious days from his entry to the College in 1913 when the dark clouds of World War I were mounting on the horizon, to his entry, first to St. Peter's College, Bearsden, and a year later to the Scots College in Rome. We would have recalled the parishes in which he laboured—we have already mentioned them and they were only three—the celebrations in 1956 when he was raised to the Metropolitan Chapter of Canons—and the other events best known to the parishioners of Polmont for whose spiritual needs he ministered for well-nigh forty years. Tributes more eloquent than mine would have been paid to Canon McCann by those who knew him well because he was their parish priest.

Had it been otherwise. Tears are an expression both of sorrow and of joy. Death, likewise, of both. Thank God, the Church's liturgy is today emphasising joy in its farewell services to those who have died. Joy and hope—because through his resurrection, Christ has conquered death. No longer do we sing—

" Day of wrath, O day of mourning
See fulfilled the prophets warning
Heaven and earth in ashes burning . . . ."

But—in the words of the Preface of the Requiem Mass:—

" For those who have been faithful Lord,
Life is not ended. Only changed.
And when this earthly abode dissolves,
An eternal dwelling place awaits them in heaven."

That is the message of comfort—the message of Our Lord himself—that I offer to all those who grieve today. To the friends and parishioners and relatives of Canon McCann. To his faithful and devoted housekeeper; and to his brother priests.

Life is not ended—only changed. Changed for the better—for the life where there are no longer tears but where our sorrows will be turned to joy. The Denny boy who became priest has come home. To Denny and to his Lord.

We ask the Lord—grant to him eternal rest. Amen

Reverend Thomas A. Mahon, B.A., H.Dip.Educ. — 31st May, 1975.

Father Thomas Mahon was born in Longford, Ireland, on the 21st June, 1922. He was educated in St. Mel's College, Longford. In 1941 he offered himself to the Holy Ghost Fathers at Kimmage, near Dublin, to study for the priesthood. While he was with them, he took an Honours B.A. at the National University, Dublin, and taught for two years at St. Mary's Senior Secondary School, Rathmines. He came over to St. Peter's College, Cardross, to complete his studies for the priesthood, and was ordained for the Diocese of Paisley in St. Mirin's Cathedral on the 29th June, 1951, by the late Bishop James Black. He was to give twenty-four fruitful years to the service of God in the diocese.

His first appointment was to St. John's, Barrhead. For all it was over one hundred years old when he came to the parish, St. John's was in the middle of a frustrating period of "makeshift." The church had been destroyed by fire in 1941, and it would be another ten years before the new St. John's would be built and opened. In the meantime, Tower Rais had been acquired (now Montfort House), and the stables had been converted into a little chapel, which catered for weekday Masses, evening devotions and the earlier, quieter Sunday Masses. The church hall in Water Road was being used for the busy 11 and 12 o'clock Sunday Masses. Father Mahon settled in smoothly to the tiresome routine, and in later years always recalled with warmth the time spent in Barrhead.

He brought a mind splendidly equipped to the service of the Church, and the "spoken word" became a chosen field of apostolate, in which he excelled. He had a gift for preaching—a gift supported in all his sermons and instructions by careful preparation and prayer. He always prepared; and his treatment of a theme was penetrating and thorough. He soon acquired a reputation for strong, positive and forthright preaching.

The Catholic Social Guild was in existence at the time, and sponsored many weekend schools both in Barrhead and in Glasgow on the social teaching of the Church. Father Mahon became very actively engaged in these enterprises, and is well-remembered for the importance he attached to Catholic Adult Education and the Catholic Family. The Knights of St. Columba, too, engaged his attention, and faithfully over the years he addressed them for a half hour after their meetings and submitted himself to a "question-time."

The pulpit remained his chosen platform, where he proclaimed and expounded God's word and attacked the evils of the day, both in St. Fergus', Paisley, where he laboured ten years, and in St. John's, Port-Glasgow which was to be his last appointment. He came to St. Fergus' in 1958, and devoted himself to preaching, to the administration of the sacraments, and to general parish work with the same spirit of dedication that had marked his ministry in Barrhead and was to inspire it also in Port-Glasgow. In Port-Glasgow, moreover, he accepted and discharged with punctiliousness the duties of chaplain both to St. Stephen's school and to the A.O.H.

He was a very competent man, with a sure touch and a shrewd appraisal of people. On the lighter side, many will remember his fund of humorous stories and his sociability. A competent accordionist, he was much in demand at parish functions and gave his time and talents unstintingly, especially at old folks' gatherings. The old and the sick received his devoted attention, perhaps more compassionately the more his own health began to fail.

In 1973, after only five years in Port-Glasgow, his health was giving cause for anxiety, and in the autumn of that year he underwent major surgery in an effort to halt the progress of his illness. At first it seemed he was making a good recovery, and he was even able to take up his work again for a time, but by the spring of 1975, it was evident that there was a recurrence of his illness, and he had to go back into hospital. His condition continued to deteriorate, and late in May his family took him home to Longford, where he died in St. Joseph's Hospital on the 31st May—the Feast of the Visitation of Our Lady.

1,200 people filled St. Mel's Cathedral, Longford, for the Requiem Mass concelebrated by Bishop Cahal B. Daly, a distant kinsman, and twelve priests, among whom Mgr. Matthew Kinsella, Vicar-General of Paisley, represented Bishop McGill of Paisley. The body was laid to rest in the family plot in Ballymacormack Cemetery, Longford, on Tuesday the 3rd June, 1975. On Thursday of the same week, Bishop McGill was the principal celebrant at a concelebrated Mass in St. John's, Port-Glasgow, and other Masses were concelebrated at the same time in St. John's, Barrhead, and in St. Fergus', Paisley. Large congregations assembled at all these Masses to pay their last tribute to a well-loved priest and to pray for the repose of his soul.

Eternal rest grant unto him, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon him. May he rest in peace.

The Very Reverend Alistair Canon Kennedy — 25th June, 1975

Canon Alistair Kennedy was born at Inverness on the 28th February, 1901. He entered St. Mary's College, Blairs, on the 7th August, 1914, and the Scots College, Rome, on the 20th October, 1920. He was ordained priest by Archbishop Palica, vice-gerent of Rome, in the church of Santa Maria sopra Minerva. If he had lived, he would have celebrated the golden jubilee of his priesthood on the 2nd May, 1976.

After the completion of his studies at Rome, he returned to Scotland in June 1927 when he was appointed as assistant to Canon Andrew Grant at St. Peter's, Aberdeen. His apprenticeship over, his first charge was at the other extremity of the diocese, at Dornie in Kintail, a lovely village by the shores of Loch Duich. It was a far cry from Aberdeen and the then teeming parish of St. Peter's, while the village was more sequestered then since there was no bridge over the loch connecting Dornie with the railway at Kyle of Lochalsh, ten miles distant. But Alistair Kennedy settled down happily among his little highland flock who took him, a highlander, to their hearts. Even then his hospitality was proverbial and nothing delighted him more than to welcome his brother priests to St. Duthac's. One memorial of the years spent at Dornie is the little mass-centre he built at Strome and which has proved invaluable since.

There followed a succession of small country parishes—Fochabers where he added an extension to the house, Tomintoul and finally Forres, where he was to remain for over twenty years. They suited him and he was content, "Charity feels no envy" and it did not matter to him that others were better circumstanced. In Forres he combined his duties as parish priest with, until recently, the chaplaincy of the R.A.F. Station at Kinloss. On Friday, the 20th June, he who had always enjoyed robust health, was suddenly taken ill and removed to Leancoil Hospital where he died on the following Wednesday, 25th June. There was regret throughout all the diocese at his death—regret at the passing of so loved a priest, regret that he had been taken without the chance of a last farewell. At the news of his illness, his life-long friend, Mgr. John Cumming, took the plane from Los Angeles and was with him at the end. The funeral mass was said in St. Mary's, Inverness, on the 27th June and his body was laid at rest in the Tomnahurich cemetery by the banks of the river Ness, in the presence of the bishop of the diocese, Bishop Foylan, and a big gathering of the diocesan clergy.

Alistair Kennedy had a gift for friendship and how many and how disparate his friends were—Father Charles Craigen, Bishop John Matheson, Mgr. William Clapperton, Canon Thomas Davitt, Mgr. John Cumming, to mention only a few. These friends were won by the attractiveness of his character, his kindness, his highland courtesy and dignity, his charity. When the news of his death was announced, everyone felt instinctively that a whole well of genial companionship would be henceforth stopped, that one who always seemed to make the world a more cheerful place would no longer be there to share with us his kindly personality. I remember once staying in Fochabers during the war and going upstairs with him some time after breakfast. Two young men were coming down. "Who are they?" I asked. "I don't know," was the reply. "They must have been here for a bath." They were from the R.A.F. Station at Dal-lachy. His was an open house to all. He was there to help. "Charity is kind."

He was always of the same humour—never moping and getting depressed and making himself a wet blanket, when things seemed to be going wrong. No one ever felt uneasy or constrained in his company. No one ever heard him utter an unkind or bitter word. No one ever harboured a grudge against him, he was too frank, too natural, too unselfconscious for that. No one could ever say of him what scripture said of the two sons of the high priest, Eli: "they withdrew men from the sacrifice of the Lord." That terrible epitaph on a priest could never in any way be applied to Alistair Kennedy. He had his human weaknesses, the defects of his natural character, but they harmed nobody, they only serve to endear his memory to us by bringing him closer to ourselves.

"Blessed souls that saw thee, and were honoured with thy friendship." May his dear soul rest in peace, where faith and hope are no more and charity remains.

The Very Reverend Thomas John Canon Murray — 2nd July, 1975

Canon Thomas J. Murray was born on the 4th April, 1891 into a family prominent and respected in St. Francis' parish, Glasgow. His early education was received at the parochial school and at St. Aloysius' College. At the age of fifteen, in 1906, he went to St. Mary's College, Blairs, to study for the diocesan priesthood and, five years later in 1911, he went to continue his studies at St. Sulpice, Paris, with the late Canon Thomas McCann as his companion. Apart from a few weeks spent at St. Peter's College, Bearsden, in 1914, when he could not get back to France because of the outbreak of the Great War, Canon Murray's studies were completed under the Sulpicians, who remained a permanent influence in his spiritual life. He returned to Glasgow in 1916 to be ordained by Archbishop John A. Maguire on the feast of St. John the Baptist: the ordination was held that year in St. Mary's, Calton, because the Cathedral was undergoing renovation in preparation for the celebration of its centenary.

After ordination, Father Murray was appointed junior curate at St. Mary's, Hamilton; his first introduction to the Catholic people of Lanarkshire, among whom his pastoral care would be exercised for the greater part of his life. The parish priest was Dean McAvoy and the senior curate was a close friend, Father John P. Conway, who was patiently awaiting permission to go off to the Chinese missions. After only a few months, Father Murray was transferred, in 1917, to Our Lady and St. Mark's, Alexandria, as assistant to Father Michael McCabe and, four years later, in 1921, he was back in Lanarkshire, as senior curate under Father Joseph Van Hecke at St. Ignatius' parish in Wishaw.

In the 1920s, the Catholic congregation in Wishaw was, like the town itself, a small, compact, friendly and contented community. It represented the life-work of its pastor, Father Joseph Van Hecke, now nearing the reward of his labours. A native of Bruges, in Belgium, Father Van Hecke was a man of immense pastoral zeal, commonsense and kindness, whose memory is held in benediction by all who knew him. The parish, or mission as he still preferred to call it, was a model of administration. The church was a spacious and pleasing building, with a great broach spire which was a landmark for miles around, and its furnishing and decoration were the outcome of Father Van Hecke's discriminating artistic taste. The school, by contemporary standards, was large, airy and well-equipped. The congregation was as carefully tended as the extensive garden which surrounded the church.

Such was the parish to which the youthful Father Murray came in 1921. He fell in love with the place and the people and the people took him to their heart. The tempo of parochial life began to quicken. All sorts of things began to change. As an altar boy, I remember assisting Father Murray, during his first year in Wishaw, as he performed the rather old-fashioned, simple ceremony of blessing the baptismal font and the Easter holy water, on Holy Saturday morning, the church being completely empty and the doors locked. By the following year we were moving into the Holy Week ceremonies of the liturgical revival. The school yards and the rectory garden were decorated in a new style for the long established Corpus Christi procession: there was bunting everywhere and, taking advantage of some work being done by steeple-jacks on the church spire, there was an enormous line of bunting from the finial of the church spire down to a distant corner of the garden. With Father Murray's enthusiasm for church music, the church choir grew in numbers, greatly extended its repertory for High Masses and solemn occasions and became the envy of less fortunate parishes. Money and resources were limited and self-help was the order of the day and the memory comes back of weary hours, with some companions, at a table in the church sacristy, transcribing sheets of music for the choir. Parishioners, who never had imagined themselves as actors, found themselves transformed into a group, called the Ignatian Players and amongst their productions was a memorable Passion Play which toured neighbouring parishes and appeared successfully in Glasgow. The influence of the new senior curate penetrated the whole life of the congregation.

Father Murray's success in training a fine choir and a competent company of actors in Wishaw owed much to his own inborn talent for the theatre. This talent lent interest to his preaching and lecturing, was clearly displayed in his inimitable ability as a raconteur, it crept into his celebration of Mass and could be discerned in his care of the sick. His care of the sick and the afflicted was quite extraordinary. They came from far and near to consult him at the chapel-house, where he kept a store of Buckfast ointment and Buckfast Tonic wine for his poorer clients. He sometimes prescribed other remedies which made local doctors shake their heads more in sorrow than in anger. Father Murray was interested in bodily, as well as spiritual healing and there were endless stories which grew with the telling: of how, for example, Father Murray, called out one night to a sick man, administered the sacraments and, coming down the stair, met the doctor just arriving. Father Murray diagnosed the man's condition for the benefit of the medico, who listened patiently and then said, with a twinkle in his eye, "Good gracious, Father, if he's as bad as that I had better go straight up and anoint him!" Throughout his whole life, Father Murray believed himself to be a sick man, suffering from some chest or heart complaint. It was difficult for contemporaries to judge just how serious this condition actually was, but these personal health worries were never allowed to distract him from his attention to those who came to seek his advice or his visitation of the sick who begged him to visit them at home or in hospital. Like his contemporary, Canon Taylor of Carfin, who was teasingly described as his dangerous rival in these charitable activities, he was much in demand all over the west of Scotland. All through his life, a succession of clients, seeking comfort and healing, kept up this remarkable pilgrimage, which must often have imposed an intolerable strain on his energy and his compassion. There was genuine and widespread regret in the parish when, in 1931, Father Murray was transferred from Wishaw to take up the duties of Spiritual Director at St. Peter's College, Bearsden, and he himself always looked back with nostalgia to the happy years he spent in the parish of St. Ignatius.

The Benedictine life seemed to have a strong attraction for Father Murray and his summer holidays were usually spent at Buckfast Abbey in Devon, but he was such an individual character that it is impossible to imagine him fitting into any monastic discipline. In fact it is questionable if he was really happy in St. Peter's College. The regular routine of college life was too restrictive for him: moreover it tended to cut him off from his cherished work among ordinary folk. He overcame this, to some extent, by acting, whenever possible, as an unofficial curate to the ageing Father Patrick Doyle at St. Joseph's, Milngavie. But in no wise did he neglect his duties at the college. His care of the spiritual training of the students was assiduous: in addition he took charge of the liturgy and ecclesiastical music of the college: from 1943 to 1945 he edited the St. Peter's College Magazine and busied himself with many other aspects of community life. The rector of the college, Monsignor Henry Forbes, was a strict disciplinarian and a stout upholder of custom and tradition. He was sometimes rather put out by Father Murray's idiosyncratic views and activities but much of this he passed over in silence because he recognised the sheer unworldliness of Father Murray's character and motives. The two were completely different in life-style and mentality but each recognised the essential goodness of the other. That mutual esteem was evident, one quiet April evening in 1945, when we all, staff and students, knelt around the bed of Monsignor Forbes in his last moments and Father Murray recited the prayers for the dying.

Father Murray's views were strongly held and sometimes strongly expressed. Like many of his generation who had known the excesses of the communist revolutionaries in Spain and had even known personally some of the clergy brutally murdered there, he had a complete abhorrence of atheistic communism. An incident comes to mind which illustrates this. One evening, in 1943, he and I sat alone at supper in the staff dining room at St. Peter's College. As we talked, we heard in the distance the students leaving the refectory and going to the common room. Presently a group were singing various songs. Father Murray suddenly grew pale with anger, rose and went out without a word. In the distance his voice could be heard, raised in protest and the singing stopped. He came back and sat down in silence, evidently under some emotional strain. I enquired what was the matter. He asked if I did not recognise what was being sung. With my ear for music, I had not. Apparently for amusement some students had been singing "The Red Flag." For Father Murray, who loved music and detested communism, to sing such an anthem was a prostitution of one of God's finest gifts to man.

From October 1945 to June 1946, the college lived in exile at St. Joseph's College, Mill Hill, London, while thoroughgoing repairs and reconstruction work were being carried out on the college buildings at Bearsden. This would have cut Father Murray off completely from his cherished work among people, who sought his counsel and advice, had he not seized every opportunity for returning to Glasgow and remaining north as long as possible. When the college returned home in 1946, Father Murray was transferred to the pastoral work he hankered after, first as parish priest of St. Charles', Newton, and, in 1952, as pastor of All Saints', Coatdyke. This was work which satisfied him, organising the spiritual life of the parish, embellishing the church to make it a worthier house of God and, every Friday evening, there was what he jokingly called his "surgery," when he was available to receive all who came seeking solace and comfort. In 1957, he was made a canon of the cathedral chapter of Motherwell and transferred to the parish of St. Bride at Cambuslang, where his accustomed routine was continued against a background of increasing infirmity and advancing age.

In Canon Murray's very complex and highly individual character there was a strong element of moral courage, which made him on occasion follow a line of conduct which seemed eccentric in the midst of more pliant and easy-going men. Many will remember what was probably the last public demonstration of this strength of character. Father Murray greatly admired the late Monsignor Alexander Hamilton and had worked with him to improve liturgical music in the churches of the archdiocese of Glasgow. They were both members of an unofficial group, which made a point of being present at Requiem Masses for deceased priestly colleagues to ensure that the singing of the plainsong music was worthily executed. Canon Murray came to St. Mary's, Hamilton, on the 25th October, 1971, to be present at the Requiem Mass for Monsignor Hamilton. It was a depressing occasion for all who had admired the dead priest's lifelong ideals. The small sanctuary was crammed with a badly organised crowd of priests striving to concelebrate Mass. The only sound was the monotony of spoken prayers, directions and announcements. It was the new rite in its dullest, most unprepossessing and most undignified form. There was little of that liturgical orderliness and nothing whatsoever of the consoling beauty of the Church's traditional music, which Monsignor Hamilton had done so much to promote. Canon Murray felt all this very deeply and determined that his friend would not be buried without some Christian music. Arrived at Dalbeth Cemetery, the large group of clergy and other mourners gathered around the open grave. A hundred yards away, down the sloping ground, the coffin was taken from the hearse and the bishop and his attendants prepared to conduct it to the graveside. Quietly and deliberately, Canon Murray stepped in front of these ecclesiastics and walked before them all the way to the grave, singing the In paradisum. The monotony of spoken prayer was halted until he had finished. He was at that time eighty years of age. His once melodious voice was now cracked and tremulous. All around was silence and embarrassment but everyone recognised that moral courage, which had been evident throughout Canon Murray's life and which was still undiminished as he asserted his affection for his dead friend and for the traditional liturgy which he had loved.

In 1973 he retired to Largs, where his devoted sisters lived and where he had been wont to seek much needed rest when the bustle of parochial life proved too exhausting, but, even in the two years of retirement that remained to him, the stream of unfortunates seeking solace and guidance never ceased. A brief final illness brought him to hospital in Greenock, where he died on the 2nd July, 1975. The Requiem Mass was celebrated in St. Bride's church, Cambuslang, and he was buried at St. Peter's Cemetery, Dalbeth.

Canon Murray was a man of high intelligence, of many talents and of boundless charity. He will be remembered by his brother priests as the most companionable of men and, throughout the west of Scotland, countless people will pray for his soul as they recall some hidden act of kindness at his hands. One would like to think of him being welcomed home by his friend, singing the familiar plainsong, In paradisum deducant te angeli . . . et cum Lazaro quondam paupere aeternam habeas requiem.

— 3rd August, 1975

Mgr. Francis Lorenc, who died on 3rd August in the Hospital of the Alexian Brothers at Twyford Abbey near London, was a priest of the Archdiocese of Glasgow. He was incardinated in 1955 by Archbishop Donald Campbell. He was ordained priest on 16th June, 1930, at Poznan in his native country of Poland, where he had been born at Siedlic, on 28th January, 1903. He began his life as a chaplain in the Polish Army in 1935. It was in the years between the wars, the one lucid interval in his country's centuries of oppression. It was for him a pleasant, satisfactory and rewarding time; how he loved to speak about it in after years.

But came the Second World War, with its hardship, fear, life in active service, and then, for all his countrymen, eventual disappointment. He served both in the army and navy. Forceful, energetic, and devoted to both the spiritual and material needs of those gallant men until the end came in a Berlin bunker. A good number of the Polish regiments were sent to Glasgow for demobilisation. Mgr. Lorenc came with them, and soon our city became for him a home from home. Immediately he set out to gather the ex-soldiers now scattered over the West of Scotland into an organised community with their own Mass Centre. He was instrumental in establishing a school in Park Circus for the many young boys who had come with the army. He lectured there on religion, ethics and other subjects. A man of considerable and pleasant status, he exuded friendliness and was quickly recognized and accepted as a personality by all sections of the city's populace. He was a man of high-powered activity and instinctive impulse. His immigrant congregation needed many things. He would ask, beg, cajole, and even weep. He never failed. I remember one night he was sitting in my room rather depressed and, for him, very silent. I asked what was wrong. Full of emotion he told me of young Polish boys, a number of whom wished to be priests, but, as he put it, no college for them, no seminary. Who can help? Was it more than a coincidence that I had just read in an Irish paper that their Bishops had decided to withdraw all students and close down the Irish College in the Rue d'Irlande in Paris. That historic spot had sent a stream of priests going to the old land in the long and harsh penal days. Might it not now do so for Poland? He listened, then stood up and walked out of the room. Seven days after, he came in, and all he said was, "The battle of Monte Cassino all over again!" He had gone straight to the Dublin boat and crossed over that night, but it was five days before he could get an interview with Archbishop McQuaid. I can well imagine how he wept and pleaded, but he got the College and came back with a large package of soutanes for the first students of the Paris College.

Meantime, another Polish priest had come to Glasgow, the Very Rev. Canon Jan Gruszka who died so suddenly last year. He had been with units of the army who were demobilised in the Orkneys and other parts of the north. For about a year they shared the pastoral cares of their compatriots in the city, living in a house in Holland Street, beside St. Patrick's, the church where all their services—baptisms, funerals and marriages—took place. Then, realizing that Canon Gruszka could by himself cope with the work of the congregation, Mgr. Lorenc made the decision. There was not yet any sign of the situation in Poland altering. It could continue for a time yet. It was still a Communist government. Although nearly forty years of age, he would go to Rome and study. He would get the qualifications and expertise that might some day be required in the Catholic University of his diocese. Within two years of what must have been intensive and exhausting study, he obtained a Doctorate in Divinity and another in Canon and Civil Law. For a time he took a part-time lectureship in the Lateran University, but there was still no prospect of going back to Poland. In fact he was never again to see his native land.

He got a post with the Council of the Consistorial Congregation, a most important factor in the Church's world-wide administration. The work had a special appeal for him, and he became absorbed in it. The remaining years of his almost twenty, he lived in Rome. Having been named an honorary Canon by the Polish Military Ordinary in 1946, he was, in 1963, nominated a Privy Chamberlain, and in the following year a Domestic Prelate to the Pope. Three years ago, he began to have eyesight trouble, and came to London for special medical treatment. He took a house in Brook Green, Kensington. He said his Mass in the Holy Trinity Church, and soon became a popular, kenspeckle figure there. Unfortunately, his general health began to deteriorate, and his life ebbed away in sad frustration.

The Requiem Mass for his funeral took place in the Holy Trinity Church, Brook Green. The parish priest, Canon Joseph Williams was the celebrant. His concelebrants were his assistant, Father Mellon, four priests from the London Polish parish, and the Very Rev. Peter Canon Boland, representing His Grace the Archbishop of Glasgow.

May he rest in peace.

Reverend Andrew Tunn — 7th August, 1975

Pray for the soul of the Reverend Andrew Tunn, assistant priest of St. Patrick's, Coatbridge, who died in the Alexander Hospital, Coatbridge, on 7th August, 1975, aged 72, in the 45th year of his priesthood.

Rev. Andrew Tunn was born in Saltcoats on 23rd December, 1902, and attended St. Mungo's Academy. After leaving secondary school he worked with a railway company, then left to enter the Society for African Missions. His studies were done in Holland, Belgium and France. Father Tunn was ordained a priest in 1930, and after his ordination worked for fourteen years in the Gold Coast (Ghana). During his years on the mission he contracted malaria, which forced his return home—and plagued him for the rest of his life.

During the war, he was attached to the R.A.F. as a chaplain. Here he soon made a name for himself—such was his facility in mixing with all ranks, and his devotion to duty in looking after the airmen, their families and the hospitals.

In 1948 he joined the diocese of Motherwell, where he served in the parishes of St. Margaret's, Airdrie, St. Patrick's, Wishaw, Mossend, Coatdyke, St. Bartholomew's and finally St. Patrick's, Coatbridge. His work in all these parishes is remembered with gratitude by the respective congregations. His devotion to our Blessed Lady was clearly shown by his continued interest in the Legion of Mary, and by his pilgrimages—even during his declining years, in pain and fatigue—to her shrine at Lourdes. He was an ever "popular" confessor—an evident sign of his deep understanding and sympathy for the sinner. "A high priest, taken from among men . . . who could have compassion on them that are ignorant and that err, because he himself also is encompassed with infirmity."

At the turn of the year his health gave cause for anxiety; in February he was taken into Bon Secours Hospital where an operation was performed. His condition improved slightly and he was transferred to the Alexander Hospital, Coatbridge, where the constant stream of visitors—Catholic and non-Catholic alike—testified to the regard in which he was held by all. The respite, however, proved only temporary, and he died in the early hours of 7th August.

On Monday, 11th August, concelebrated Requiem Mass was offered by His Lordship, Bishop Thomson and some twenty priests in St. Patrick's, Coatbridge, from where he was buried in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Rochsoles, Airdrie.

May he rest in peace.

The Right Reverend Monsignor Gerard Marie Rogers, Judge Prelate of the Sacred Roman Rota — 10th August, 1975

Gerard Marie Rogers will be remembered as one of the most outstanding Scottish Churchmen of this century. Gifted far above average with a brilliantly perceptive mind, he mastered quickly anything he put his hand to. Nonetheless in his personality he achieved a balance any of us would envy, possessing till his last day a charm of manner and a common touch which revealed more than anything else his noble mind and truly Christian approach to life and which endeared him to thousands of people throughout his life. Men of the mould of Gerard Rogers are rarely met in the span of one's life.

Born in Dennistoun on 24th October, 1908, he received his early training from the Marist Brothers at Saint Mungo's Academy, and at the age of sixteen entered Saint Peter's College, Bearsden, to study for the priesthood. The greatest part of his training was, however, entrusted to the Scots College, Rome, and the Jesuit fathers of the Gregorian University.

Next to the blessing of good parents and a happy family circle, the greatest influence in his life was undoubtedly his Roman formation.

He fell in love with Rome. Indeed, he became a Roman and it was in that city that he was to spend the last fourteen years of his active life.

Ordained in Rome at 23 years of age on 19th December, 1931, and with a Doctorate in Philosophy and Theology, he returned to Glasgow in 1932 to begin his work as a priest-assistant in St. John's, Portugal Street. Already he was a young man of great promise and a discerning archbishop encouraged him to return to Rome for a further period to take his doctorate in Canon Law.

This was a decisive step in the development of his future career in the Church but Gerard Rogers never succumbed to the temptation to be a legalist. He was too human for that. People, not laws, were for him of primary importance. Laws were not burdens to furrow backs, but aids to a fuller enjoyment of Christ's grace in the Church.

For many years after his second return from Rome he was the close collaborator and confidant of his archbishop, filling many roles as a young priest in the life of the Church in Glasgow, especially as president of the Marriage Tribunal. To his organisational talent too were entrusted the arrangements for the 4th Glasgow Diocesan Synod of 1946, a task which he brought to a very successful conclusion. By a happy twist of providence he was resident in Lanarkshire when the Diocese of Motherwell was set up in 1948. Automatically he became a Motherwell priest. The first Bishop, Monsignor Edward Douglas, had no difficulty in his choice of a right-hand man, ready made, mature, full of vision and enthusiasm for the new diocese. He made Gerard Rogers his Vicar-General and together they gave the people of Lanarkshire a superbly organised Church and imbued it with a truly Catholic spirit.

Monsignor Rogers rose magnificently to this challenge and helped to carry the weight of affairs with intense loyalty and devotion. The same dedication was shown to Bishop Scanlan when he succeeded Bishop Douglas.

This involvement in administration did not detract from his studies. Despite constant demands on his time he enrolled in the University of Glasgow where he was successful in obtaining a Bachelor of Law degree. This was by way of increasing his effectiveness in relation to his Marriage Tribunal activities.

Monsignor Heard, the Scots Dean of the Rota was created a Cardinal by Pope John in 1959 and a few months later in January 1960 Gerard Rogers was nominated to succeed him as a judge of the Rota.

The Bishop, clergy and people of Motherwell felt honoured at the choice but sad to lose such a loveable friend.

Monsignor Rogers was under no illusions as to what this change would entail. Pulling up roots in middle-age, returning to books and a highly specialised task after many years of practical work made great demands on him, but "Roma locuta est," "Rome has spoken," and he gladly and humbly accepted the nomination.

Speaking at his farewell night in Motherwell, he made this clear: "You can imagine a dedicated life of this kind cannot go on with human resources alone. These brilliant men who are among the best jurists in the world have given themselves completely to this work. The atmosphere is one of complete self-sacrifice. That is why I ask for your prayers so that I can persevere and that I may not let anyone down."

Many a time later in Rome he spoke of this feeling of inadequacy in the light of his colleagues' apparent facile expertise. But it was only a matter of weeks before the same colleagues spoke in glowing terms of this new friend's qualities. He soon became a favourite with his fellow-judges, the lay advocates and minor officials. He brought an unusual compassion and kindness to his work, bestowing it in abundance literally to princess and peasant. His advice was sought and valued outside the Rota in the Sacred Congregation of the Sacraments, the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith and the Congregation for the Clergy.

Gerard Rogers did not care about distinction. The Church's interest and concern were always his and he placed his gifts at God's disposal. Whether it was in pastoral work, administration, education, care of children or high-level decisions, he gave what he had with utmost generosity.

Many of his friends had visions of his receiving higher responsibilities in the central government of the Church, but God had only one more demand to make from him—the greatest and the most maturing: He wished him to become like his son Jesus Christ and spend the last days of his life in bodily suffering.

Gerard Rogers was never a man who flaunted his piety. His faith, without being in any way emotional, was deeply and unshakeably rooted in his very being. He was a churchman in the best sense of the term, and in his last fourteen months he had to call on all his Christian qualities to be what he became, a suffering servant of Christ.

Gerard Rogers accepted this one final cross. He drank to the dregs a cup of suffering which tasted of almost all the humiliations the human frame can support. There were times, he said "when all he could do was to cling to God in dark faith."

But if he was gentle in health, he became gentler in sickness. He never wallowed in self-pity: rather, he was alert to the needs and concerns of those who visited him and nursed him. In his brightest moments he radiated joy, in his dark days his silence spoke eloquently of his deep faith and humility.

At baptism, his parents gave him the middle name of Marie in token of their devotion to Mary the Mother of God. He always cherished a deep devotion to Mary and one of his last wishes was to go with the archdiocesan pilgrimage to Lourdes in July, but prudence forced him to change this decision. May Mary now intercede for him and welcome him after the dark night into the realms of unending bliss.

If he could speak to us today, perhaps he would use the words of Cardinal Newman to epitomise his philosophy of life:

"Whatever, wherever I am, I can never be thrown away. If I am in sickness, my sickness may serve him; in perplexity, my perplexity may serve him; if I am in sorrow, my sorrow may serve him. My sickness or perplexity or sorrow may be necessary causes of some great end, which is quite beyond us. He does nothing in vain; he may prolong my life, he may shorten it; he knows what he is about. He may take away my friends. He may throw me among strangers. He may make me feel desolate, make my spirits sink, hide the future from me—still, he knows what he is about—I trust him wholly. Thou art wiser than I—more loving to me than I myself. Deign to fulfil thy high purposes in me, whatever they be—work in and through me. I am born to serve thee, to be thine, to be thine instrument. Let me be thy blind instrument. I ask not to see—I ask not to know—I ask simply to be used."

The Very Reverend Canon Bartholomew Burns — 29th August, 1975

Bartholomew Burns was born on 21st December, 1903 in the village of Sneem, Co. Kerry and was baptised in the local church. He received his early education at Mungret College, Limerick and from there pursued his studies for the priesthood at St. John's College, Waterford where he was ordained priest by the Bishop of Waterford, the Most Reverend Bernard Hackett, on 17th June, 1928.

That summer he came to begin his priestly ministry in the Archdiocese of Glasgow and was appointed curate at St. Aloysius', Springburn where he remained until 1936. In that year he was transferred to St. Anthony's, Govan and was there until October, 1948 when he was commissioned to succeed the late Rev. Timothy Feely as parish priest at St. Robert's, Househillwood. He was parish priest at St. Robert's for 27 years and died in the presbytery there on 29th August, 1975 after almost a year's painful illness.

Physically he was a strong, forceful man, full of energy and fond of sports, particularly rugby, soccer and golf. As a young man he was prominent on the rugby field, training assiduously, even to the extent of renouncing smoking and indulging in cross country running. He often recounted a story of how as a student returning home to Sneem on holiday his knowledge of rugby football probably saved his life in an encounter with the Black and Tans. As a priest his greatest outdoor relaxation was on the golf course where he played every game as seriously as though it were the final round of the Open Championship.

This natural energy and drive he carried into his priestly work. From his appointment as curate in Springburn until a few months before his untimely death Canon Burns was an indefatigable worker. His early years in the priesthood soon gave him an insight into human suffering among the distressed in Springburn during the dark days of the Depression, and among the sick and dying in Stobhill Hospital where he shared the duties of chaplain with his fellow curates. This task was far from being a sinecure. Often he would be called out to attend the dangerously ill and dying two or three times in the one night necessitating a walk of a considerable distance in all kinds of weather to Stobhill Hospital. This work he performed unstintingly and without complaint but through it he was rewarded with a great love and understanding of the sick in the three parishes in which he laboured.

The other great love in his life was the school where he established most cordial relations with the headmasters, staff and the children. It is not an exaggeration to say that he spent four mornings each week visiting the schools, particularly the primary school, where his great affection for the children was fully reciprocated. Canon Burns was a man of apparently brusque manner but the children, and others, soon perceived behind this mask an affectionate nature and a firm friend.

While he was in St. Anthony's, Govan, he was given charge of the twin parish of St. Constantine which was at that time attached to and administered from St. Anthony's. This task included the visitation of the Southern General Hospital which gave him further contact with the sick. It also gave him an opportunity to develop his outstanding organising ability which stood him in good stead when he was appointed parish priest in St. Robert's.

In 1948 the parish of St. Robert was only a few years old—a comparatively small but far-flung housing scheme which was to grow into the mammoth dormitory complex it has become today. His first task was to supervise the establishment of two daughter parishes, St. Conval's and St. James'—and in later years, St. Bernard's, Nitshill. He had then to mould the people of St. Robert's and imbue them with a real parochial spirit, coming as they did from all parts of the city of Glasgow. The church building had now become inadequate and he persuaded Archbishop Campbell to allow him to erect a church worthy of the parish, a truly magnificent building in the Pugin style, with all the liturgical furnishings and vestments necessary for the due worship of God. Later, with the advent of the decrees of the Vatican Council he had the church re-arranged so that it was adapted to the new approach to the Liturgy without losing any of its beauty and dignity. Not content with that a new presbytery rose beside the church and the former church was utilised as a hall in which he organised functions and entertainment for his people who, in this vast area, were deprived of practically any facilities for amusement. In recognition of his work Father Burns was created a canon of the cathedral chapter in 1967.

But all this could easily be described by anyone with access to reference books and it is already well known to the people of St. Robert's, but it was only those who lived in close daily contact with him who had a glimpse of his deep spirituality. His fervent love of the Blessed Sacrament and the Mass was made manifest by his building of a beautiful church, but only a few knew of his intensive interior life, his meticulous preparation for and thanksgiving after Mass. His fidelity to his daily meditation was a source of edification and example to those who knew this side of his personal life. His daily recitation of the rosary on his knees, no matter how tiring the day had been, was known only to his curates who had occasion to go to his sitting room late at night.

Surely a pointer to his friendliness, generosity, geniality, sense of humour and his love of his fellow priests' company was the fact that he always had a stream of priest visitors to his house and by the fact that many of his curates remained with him for ten, fifteen and even seventeen years and only with reluctance left him when they were appointed to another post.

These few words are written by one who knew him and served under him. Father Burns would, of course, be the first to deny any merit or worth in his 47 years in the priesthood but all those who lived and worked with him would be witnesses to the place he is held in in their affection. The vast number who attended his funeral and the great gathering of priests who concelebrated his exequial Mass attested to the esteem and love in which he was held in the estimation of both priests and people. Bartholomew Burns was a great and good priest. May he now enter the joy of the Lord and be rewarded for a task well done. May he rest in peace.

Reverend Ian Ashley — 11th September, 1975

Father Ian Ashley, assistant at St. Bernadette's, Larbert, was born in Edinburgh on 10th July, 1938, and died there on 11th September, 1975, in the 38th year of his age and the 10th of his priesthood. At the funeral Mass in St. Peter's Church, Morningside, Edinburgh, on 13th September, the following panegyric was delivered by Father Walter Glancy, parish priest of St. Peter's.

As we meet this morning we are conscious of two moods in the Christian way of life—joy and sorrow. Death, for the Christian, means that "life is changed not ended." We are sustained in this belief by the Resurrection of Christ. That is why the Paschal Candle stands lit by the coffin—symbolising that our Lord and Ian shared their lives and now share the glory of the Resurrection.

Despite therefore the terrible wrench that death brings, there is also a note of—not just resignation or acceptance (there is that too)—but actually of joy and consolation. Why is that? How can one really speak of joy on an occasion like this. The answer is to be found in the life and death of a person like Father Ian Ashley.

One great difference between the Old and New Dispensations is that the Jews expressed their religion in sacrifices, in the destruction of a body (of a goat) and symbolically of man; whereas in the sacramental life of the Christian, the sacraments do not mean destruction of the body at all, but the consecration of our bodies to God, with the understanding that this consecration symbolises, and effects, the consecration of our souls as well.

"This is my body" is a phrase found at the core of our liturgy and in the centre of the Christian heart. In those few words Christ expressed his complete giving of himself to and for mankind. He intended them also as an invitation to mankind to give in return. So at solemn moments in life the Christian comes before God, and, as Mgr. Knox put it so beautifully, "without irreverence can use our Lord's very words 'This is my body.'" For Ian the first occasion was when his parents brought him for baptism. Through them he was saying "This is my body." The body is washed and the soul is cleansed. It marked the beginning of a real, continuing, ever more intimate relationship with the Person of Christ. Regularly Ian presented himself at all (I mean all) the church services. He became an altar boy . . . It seems such a short time ago that a small group, now young men in the congregation, served on the altar at St. Peter's. They were also Scouts. They were a credit to their families and to the parish—always in plenty of time, taking pride in doing things correctly, keeping us all right in the ceremonies. In the sacristy, while waiting "to appear" for Mass, two subjects often cropped up. One was—who would be the first to marry? The other was—how about the priesthood? All of them at least toyed with the idea of the priesthood. We were quite wrong in our bet as to the first to marry. But we were not wrong in our guess that Ian would be a priest. In fact, as time went on, the only doubt was whether we would lose him to the Cistercians. And so the day came when he prostrated himself on the sanctuary of the Cathedral. "This is my body." And his first Mass at this altar, which we remember so well, when our Lord and Ian gave themselves to one another in that new relationship which is beyond human words. On the rare occasions since then that he was able to say Mass here the congregation invariably remarked how beautifully he said Mass, reflecting his home and his time as an altar boy.

How can anyone take on the role of the priesthood? Ian had the diffidence that any thinking human being must have. But his heart felt a calling and he had the qualities that go with a generous heart. It is our duty to use our God-given talents to the uttermost and return them to God tenfold. Ian did just that in his chosen profession. He had instinctive goodness of soul, plain commonsense, and open personality, almost a simple view of life—simple in that the right thing and the good thing to do was always obvious and uncomplicated and easy—a refreshing view in an age which is confused about priorities, even about what is sacred. His judgment, one found could seldom be faulted in the light of subsequent experience. What most have to learn by experience, he seemed to know by instinct, from quite a young age. And that is a great gift. With that gift went a tolerance of everyone's opinion, no matter how different from his own. If something was said which did not ring true, his face would fall suddenly in puzzlement, then, as quickly, a smile would appear as much as to say, "You are wrong, but have your opinion."

His real strength of character however, was shown in his illness. Certainly for at least a year he knew his time was short. But I don't think he let his guard down once to reveal the fact. He did not want to upset or worry anyone. That takes real courage. In such a character, one looks for the source of this conscientiousness and goodness. It is not hard to find in his case. His thoughts were never far from God. And now once again, and for the last time, this body, now only a body, is presented before the altar. "This is my body." The mutual giving is over. Master and servant are united for ever.

While, then, we must feel deep sorrow for Mr. and Mrs. Ashley and Michael and Maureen in the loss of his physical presence—for they made a lot of Ian and he made a lot of them—we also feel joy that he is united to Him for Whom he gave so much of his life, in the comforting knowledge that when we break bread together and are united to Christ, we will be united to him too. "The privilege of friendship extends beyond the grave." The Eucharist gives us the opportunity of making ourselves one with those we love. It unites us with one another because it unites us to Christ.

May God rest his generous soul.

Reverend John Cassidy — 1st October, 1975

Father John Cassidy was born at Paisley on the 16th June, 1915. He was educated at St. Mirin's Academy and in 1935 went to the White Fathers' house of philosophy, Autreppe, Belgium. His novitiate was spent at the Maison Carrée, Algiers, while he did his theology at Thibar and Carthage where he was ordained on the 4th April, 1942. His first appointment after ordination was to Northern Rhodesia but it was cancelled because of the war. In 1943 he was sent to Rossington Hall, Doncaster, to teach dogmatic theology and thereafter, for the same purpose, to Monteviot House, Jedburgh, where he remained until 1949. In August of that year he was sent to teach philosophy at S'Heerenberg, Holland. After two years he returned to the English province, was superior of the house of studies for student White Fathers at London University and later at the house of studies at St. Andrews. In 1953 he became superior of the junior seminary at Bishop's Waltham. Thirteen years after ordination, he received his heart's desire in an appointment to the Prefecture of Oyo, Nigeria. But ill health intervened. It was thus that he sought permission to leave the White Fathers and to seek less strenuous work in a home diocese.

He was accepted by Bishop Francis Walsh for the diocese of Aberdeen in 1957. For five years he served at St. Mary's Cathedral before going to the parish of Stratherrick in 1962 and, finally, to Portsoy. It was there that, in 1967, he kept the silver jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood. Many of his fellow priests will recall that day when they set out in joyful mood for Portsoy to celebrate with him this gladsome anniversary, only to learn on their arrival that his sister, Agnes, who kept house for him, had been found dead in bed that very morning. Then, within the space of just over a year, his two brothers died and lastly, the only remaining member of the family, his sister Margaret. It was a succession of misfortunes which told on a weakened body and, though the spirit was willing, it soon became evident that, even in the unexacting circumstances of parish work at Portsoy, Father Cassidy could not carry on. In 1968 he retired from all pastoral work and came to Aberdeen to live under the hospitable roof of 52 Camperdown Road.

The last few weeks of his life were spent in hospital and, when it became obvious that there was no hope of recovery, he was transferred to Nazareth House, Aberdeen, where he died on the 1st October, surrounded by the devoted care of the good sisters. The funeral Mass was said in the convent chapel on the 3rd October when Canon Duncan Stone paid a simple and moving tribute to an old friend. That afternoon the mortal remains of Father John Cassidy were laid to rest in the same grave as his two brothers and sister in the little cemetery of Portsoy, lapped by the waves of the Moray Firth.

John Cassidy had more than ordinary gifts of mind. That is apparent from the offices he held among the White Fathers. At the same time he was a real pastor of souls. The evidence lies in his care for the older members of the Cathedral congregation and in the confessional, where so many found solace in his kindness and understanding. Although he spent most of his life outwith the diocese of Aberdeen, he soon entered into its ways and no one—priests or people—ever thought of him as a stranger. These years in the diocese were years weighed down by the burden of ill health, but John Cassidy never complained; they were accepted humbly and quietly and in this respect his life preached the gospel as eloquently as his words. It was hard to believe that here was a sick man. Today these years of quiet endurance stand him in good stead. May he rest in peace.

Reverend Sean Murphy — 2nd October, 1975

The Rev. Sean Murphy was born on 23rd November, 1915 in the town of Clondalkin, County Dublin; the Murphy family belonged to the Immaculate Conception parish since early generations and in this church Father Sean received the Sacraments of Baptism, Penance, Holy Eucharist and Confirmation; and it was here that he had stood with Our Lord in his hands for the first time after his ordination. So it was only fitting that it was from this church that his earthly body set out on its last journey to its final resting place in the cemetery of Esker on 8th October 1975.

Father Sean was ordained a priest of God on 29th June, 1948 in Harrow Weald as a Salvatorian Father. He spent five years teaching other young men the three R's and who is to know, maybe through his example, some of them have followed in the footsteps of the Master. In the year 1953 he came to the Diocese of Galloway, where he spent the next twenty-two years working among the people of that scattered diocese. When he first arrived he spent a few months in Troon and then another few months in Hurlford before taking up his curacy in the parish of St. Mary's, Saltcoats. In 1958 he became parish priest of St. Ninian's, Newton Stewart, and while there served St. Joseph's, Creetown, saying Mass there on a Sunday and Wednesday and also giving Devotions on Wednesday evenings. He also looked after the prisoners in Penninghame Open Prison, each week visiting and talking to the men. In 1962 he was transferred to St. Francis Xavier's Church in Waterside, where once again he had to serve another church, St. Barbara's, Patna. St. Barbara's had just been recently opened and so he had very little to do there, but St. Francis Xavier's was an old church and had extensive grounds. He renovated it to suit the new Liturgy and a great deal of the work was done by his own hands with help from a faithful band of parishioners. The grounds had been allowed to grow wild and here again he turned his hands to cultivating it and also laying out a car park. In 1970 he was once again on the move to Our Lady and St. Patrick's Auchinleck, where he remained until his death on 2nd October.

Father Sean from the moment he entered the diocese was accepted by his fellow priests as a brother and by the people of the diocese as a friend whom they could trust and love. He had many great qualities—his devotion to the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass and to Our Lady—his greatest delight a few nights before he died was when two fellow priests concelebrated Mass for him in his study and he received Our Lord's body and blood. His loyalty to his bishop and adopted diocese, whatever he was asked to do no matter how hard and how unpleasant, he tried with all his heart to fulfil to his utmost. His unwavering allegiance to the teaching of the Church, and he never allowed anyone or anything to sway him from his principles. His striving still to fulfil his priestly duties even in these last few months, when his strength was slowly but surely slipping away. Only when his bishop ordered him to remain in bed did he give in and in the end accept that soon he would be going home for an eternal rest. He entered the Central Hospital, Irvine, in August and on 15th September he was transferred to the Western Infirmary for treatment; the disease had gone too far and so they could only try to make his last few weeks a little bit easier. He never complained at any time, but he was filled with joy when he returned to Auchinleck on Friday, 19th September. There he was able to go about for a few days but soon it became apparent that he was sinking fast. On Wednesday, 24th September he had to remain in bed and on the following Thursday, 2nd October, he passed to his eternal reward.

On Sunday, 5th October, his remains were carried to the church by the members of S.V.D.P. and on Monday in an overflowing church, the bishop with his clergy paid their last respects. His body was flown that night to Dublin accompanied by some of his friends and on Tuesday evening the remains returned to the church where he had become a son of God in Baptism. On Wednesday the funeral Mass was said by the Galloway Vicar-General and his remains were then taken to their last resting place.

What can one say about Father Sean—a friend that only passes through your life once in a lifetime. You could trust him and could be sure that in time of joy, danger or sorrow he would be there to give you that hand-clasp that says you are not alone. Yes, many people will miss him, his brothers and sister, sister-in-law and nephews, but although a sad day for them a happy one for him. He will be meeting again soon those dear friends of old, his parents and brother and sister and many others whom he helped through the dark night lying between this world and the next. It is a happy one for us because we can be sure that when the night closes in for us we will have a friend there waiting within to say with the master "welcome home." He will, like all of us, have to answer for those human failings and so just as you often write to those who have left their native heath to go elsewhere, remember him in your prayers that God may say soon to him "Come you blessed of My Father."

Reverend James Gordon Robson — 15th December, 1975

We are on our trial, there is a term to our efforts, a limit to our opportunities. And the time is short and the end often sudden. It was sudden for Father Robson. On the evening of Sunday, the 14th December, he was unexpectedly taken ill. It is providential that friends were with him who rushed him to the hospital, where he was anointed; the next morning he was dead. He was only 49 years old.

Father James Gordon Robson was born at Aberdeen on the 4th November, 1926. He entered St. Mary's College, Blairs, in August 1940, volunteered for service in the Navy and at the end of the war proceeded to St. Edmund's College, Ware, where students from the diocese of Aberdeen were then sent for higher studies. On the completion of his course he was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop Francis Walsh in St. Mary's Cathedral, Aberdeen, on Trinity Sunday, the 31st May, 1953.

His first appointment was to St. Mary's, Inverness, as assistant priest, whence he later went in the same capacity to St. Mary's Cathedral, Aberdeen. In 1957, he became parish priest of Tombae in lower Glenlivet, a parish which has since been merged with those of Tomintoul and Chapelton. The years spent at Tombae were quiet and uneventful. In 1962 the noiseless tenor of his way was broken by a call to forsake the uplands of Banffshire and assume charge of the most important and populous parish in the diocese, that of the Cathedral. It was with the utmost reluctance that Father Robson accepted this new responsibility. He was by nature diffident and unsure of himself, and the ten years he spent at the Cathedral were not altogether congenial to him as far as administration was concerned.

By this time his health had given some cause for alarm, and in 1972 he moved across the river Dee to take charge of the combined parishes of the Sacred Heart, Torry, and Our Lady of Aberdeen, Kincorth. The work was far less exacting and his prime endeavour was to weld these two congregations into a unity. His Christmas message to his parishioners, written a short time before his sudden and tragic death, was concerned with this theme. No-one had then any premonition that it would be his last.

One remembers James Gordon Robson as a kindly, friendly priest, welcome in any family circle and held in affection by his people. He won their hearts by his kindness, his easy approach, his obvious interest in their affairs. His motto was that of St. Francis of Sales: "Do all by love and nothing by constraint." The evidence of that affection was to be seen in the crowded Cathedral on the 17th December, the day of his exequal Mass. Well-nigh every priest in the diocese was present on that occasion, from Thurso in the extreme north to Dornie in the extreme west, and thirty of them concelebrated with the bishop, Bishop Michael Foylan, who preached the homily. This same impression of his character was conveyed by people met casually in the street after the announcement of his untimely death—a taxi driver, a shop assistant, a member of the Aberdeen Endowments Trust of which Father Robson had been a valued member, non-Catholics all, who mourned the passing of a friend.

A man's dealings with children are often regarded as a revelation of his real self. It fills in the picture of what Father Robson was like to see him at ease with the children at St. Peter's School and Nazareth House, with them flocking about him and happy in his company. Of such is the kingdom of heaven.

"GOING, THEREFORE, TEACH ALL NATIONS"

We cannot all leave home to become Missionaries in the field but we are all asked to help—by our prayers and contributions—in the rewarding work of evangelising all nations.

JOIN

The Society for the Propagation of the Faith

(SCOTTISH BRANCH)

(It's one of the Holy Father's special societies for
"STAY-AT-HOME-MISSIONARIES")

TO BE A MEMBER . . .

1. ENROL IN YOUR PARISH GROUP. Give in your name to your Parish Priest or Curate—or send it to one of the officials listed below.
2. PRAY DAILY FOR THE CHURCH'S MISSION WORK. Recite daily one Our Father, one Hail Mary and add the invocations: "St. Francis Xavier, pray for us. St. Theresa, pray for us."
3. HELP THE MISSIONS FINANCIALLY***
"Ordinary Members" contribute 25p a year.
"Special Members" contribute £1 (100 p) a year.
"Life Members" make one contribution of £10.
(*Parish Priests usually arrange for the collection of subscriptions by appointing "Promoters of the Society" in each parish.)

You can make your contribution of £1 either in full, or in 10 monthly instalments of 10p.

In some parishes the contributions are taken up by a weekly envelope marked "2p for the Missions."

PRIVILEGES OF MEMBERSHIP

Apart from the satisfaction you will have of "doing your bit for the Missions"—

- 1) you will share in 40,000 Masses specially offered by the missionaries supported by the Society.
- 2) Holy Mass is said every day in the crypt of St. Peter's, Rome, for all deceased Life and Special Members.

"How sweet to die knowing that in life we have faithfully worked for and helped the Missions."—POPE JOHN XXIII.

ST. FRANCIS LEPROSY GUILD

DIRECTOR - - - - THE VERY REV. FATHER PROVINCIAL, O.F.M.
 PRESIDENT - - - - SIR HAROLD HOOD, BT., K.S.G.
 HON. TREASURER - - K. P. NEY, ESQ., F.C.A.

LEPROSY CAN BE CURED

Founded in 1895, the St. Francis Leprosy Guild has as its aim to collect alms for the assistance of missionary priests and nuns in their work for victims of leprosy throughout the world.

After the first General Meeting in 1897, a sum of £60 was divided among four leprosy colonies. Since then, £541,773 has been sent to assist leprosy patients regardless of nationality or creed, throughout the world. In 1974 £44,928 was collected and distributed among 122 leprosy colonies representing 31 countries.
